

TRUCK CRASH TRAPS THREE PAIR IN VIRGINIA SIEGE BATTLE TO DEATH

Alice Longworth Says

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 16.—The creamy complacency of Professor Tugwell as he reported to the Senate Appropriations Committee that Mr. Hopkins is to get all his money may perhaps be accounted for on the ground that he has access to the presidential privy purse.

The apparent abandonment of Mr. Tugwell by his chief is probably no more than a campaign camouflage, designed to create the impression that the number one brain-truster and leading advocate of radical change in our form of government is not as potent in New Deal affairs as he once was.

Mr. Tugwell's indifference to what looks like desertion rather gives the game away. During the congressional campaign two years ago he was relegated to the background and at its termination was as much in the picture as ever.

The natural inference is that the professor is not really being treated badly and will eventually get what he wants; that the denial of funds for his resettlement administration is nothing but a political pantomime put on for the campaign purposes.

PA NEW OBSERVES

County Game Protector Frank L. Coen reported today that members of the various sportsmen's organization of the county are cooperating with him in developing plant food in its natural state for transplanting next fall to the woods where game may find it next winter. It happens to be a new program worked out for the benefit of the game, and for farmers, indirectly, because it will help keep game from destroying the farmers' crops. During the summer considerable plant growing is to be done.

One of the attractive beauty spots along the highways of this district is the little park area at the intersections of the Perry highway and the New Castle-Slippery Rock road at Harlansburg. The grass and shrubbery are kept in most appealing condition by the highway department.

Perhaps one of the most scenic auto rides in this locality is a trip on the Portersville to Ellwood City concrete road.

Add odd sight department: A man carrying a huge lawn mower throughout the downtown streets this morning. On the corner of North Mercer and East Washington streets, this morning, an elderly man perched himself on the curb, opened a bag and nonchalantly ate his dinner.

Dear Pa New:

Twenty-five years ago the Hairy Woodpecker was a common bird in our woods, but today they are considered to be rare. So the finding of one of these birds on the sidewalk this morning, an elderly man perched himself on the curb, opened a bag and nonchalantly ate his dinner.

GUN-CRAZY NEGRO BLAMED IN SIEGE

Six Hour Battle Occurs In Vicinity Of Gordonsville, Virginia

(International News Service)
GORDONVILLE, Va., May 16.—Blackened timbers and a pile of ashes today marked the spot where a gun-crazy negro and his sister held a heavily armed posse of several hundred at bay, killing the sheriff and wounding five others before they were shot to death and cremated in their flaming cabin.

William R. Young, the sheriff of Orange county, was killed when he sought to arrest the negro, 65 year old William Wailes, for threatening a woman with a gun in a nearby cemetery.

Wailes had a mania for firearms and Sheriff Young took four other men with him when he went to serve a warrant on Wailes. When the party arrived and knocked at the door of the colored man's cabin, he appeared at a window with a rifle and, in a demented rage, shot the sheriff through the heart.

Sister Opens Fire
Cora Wailes, the sister, then appeared at another window and opened fire. A virtual fusillade followed from the cabin as both brother and sister fired on the party.

State Troopers S. L. McWilliams and Wayne Carr were both wounded. McWilliams in the arm and leg, and Carr in the hip.

In the gun battle that was to follow for six hours, three more men were wounded.

They were Lafayette Young, brother of the slain sheriff, shot when he tried to retrieve his brother's body; Oscar Mundy, of Barboursville, who tried to drive a steel body truck up to the house to serve as a shield for sharpshooters, and E. W. Bushong, of Culpeper, who was shot by the woman just before she died.

Mussolini Not Giving Support To Starhemberg

(International News Service)
VIENNA, May 16.—Premier Benito Mussolini today dealt what was regarded here as a death-blow to Prince Ernst von Starhemberg's hopes for Italian support against Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg.

"I assure you of the good wishes and sincere friendship of my government," said a message sent by Il Duce to the chancellor.

The Rome protocol (guaranteeing the political independence of Austria) will always remain one of the chief pillars of the Fascist government's policies.

Mussolini's note came in reply to one from Schuschnigg assuring Italy that there would be no change in Austria's attitude towards her protector following the removal of Prince Starhemberg from the cabinet.

'Reform' School Girls White House Guests

By MARIE MANNING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The girls of the National Training school, on the conduit road in the national capital, believe in fairy godmothers—the name of their is Eleanor Roosevelt, first lady of the land. Training school is a polite name for a "reform" school, and this one is as grim an institution as is likely to be found anywhere.

To Tour White House
But high brick walls, barred windows so near the ceiling that girls have to climb on their cots to see a little patch of sky, will be forgotten when Mrs. Roosevelt welcomes them at four p. m. today to a White House garden party. They will be served ice cream, cake, lemonade and Mrs. Roosevelt will take them herself on a personally conducted tour of the first floor of the White House.

These attentions will be a change magical as the one cinderella experienced when her fairy godmother turned the big ugly rats into prancing coach horses. Like Cinderella, these girls are no strangers to rats, the kind that stay rats,—thirty—

Patrolmen Are Ordered Out On State Highways

All State Highway Patrolmen Released From Extra Office Clerical Work

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, May 16.—An order releasing all state highway patrolmen from extra clerical work today resulted in an increase of 20 per cent in the number of patrolmen on actual patrol duty in the state.

The increase, officials pointed out, is almost equivalent of an entire new troop. The order was issued by Capt. Charles H. Quarles, new superintendent of the state highway patrol.

Every Available Man
"Putting every available patrolman on duty on the roads will certainly result in greater safety on the highways," Capt. Quarles said in announcing the order. "The frequent appearance of a patrolman makes every motorist drive with greater care and respect for the law."

The patrol superintendent had charged that efficiency of his forces was impaired by their extra clerical duties that made them "rubber check chasers."

New Tax Bill Is Considered

Senate Finance Committee Is Preparing Substitute For President's Plan

COMPROMISE BILL BEING OUTLINED

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 16.—A new compromise tax bill, including features of eight different plans, was being considered today by the senate finance committee as a substitute for President Roosevelt's $803,000,000 measure.

The compromise would increase both existing income and corporate taxes, make dividends subject to regular income taxes and levy a penalty tax on the undistributed income of corporations. It sponsors said it would raise the $800,000,000 revenue asked by the president but were awaiting estimates from the treasury to confirm their guess.

With a majority of the committee reported as favoring the compromise, administration leaders hoped to end the week-long deadlock over adoption of a substitute for the scrapped presidential plan. There were some prospects the committee might reach an agreement on a new corporation tax schedule by night-fall.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—Two brothers and a young mother, who purportedly left the side of her sleeping husband to keep an early morning appointment, were burned to death today when a heavily-burdened truck crashed in Northeast Philadelphia and burst into flames.

Out of control, the ten-ton vehicle, loaded with highly inflammable whisky, collided with a parked car, careened into a telegraph pole and overturned.

RESCUE MEN FROM MINE

Save Pair At Pittsburgh

Action Against Men After Their Rescue Is Not As Yet Determined

LOST UNDERGROUND FOR OVER 25 HOURS

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 16.—Police and coal company officials today were uncertain what action should be taken against Arthur Tonner, 35, and Robert Dyer, 36, who crawled into the abandoned Montour No. 8 mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company and became lost for 25 hours.

News of their plight spread by Edwin Miller, 35, their "lookout," the men were finally rescued by emergency crews of the U. S. Bureau of Mines. All three men were taken to the detective bureau where they were alleged to have explained they were in search of a large amount of copper wire and dismantled machinery they believed had been left in the mine.

Chief County Detective J. S. McGinley said prosecution rested with the coal company, but officials of Pittsburgh Coal said no action could be taken pending the return to the city of J. D. A. Morrow, the president.

Dyer and Tonner admitted, detectives said, they were seeking copper wire and had been told "there was plenty" in the mine.

Becoming lost in the maze of underground corridors, the men were found sitting on a pile of rocks awaiting rescue. They had instructed Miller, who refused to enter the abandoned workings, to spread an alarm if they failed to reappear. They had been without food and water since before entering the mine at 1:30 p. m. Thursday. It was 3 p. m. Friday before rescuers reached them.

TWO CREMATED AT BLAZING CABIN IN BATTLE WITH POSSE

posse was rounded up and commenced a siege of the cabin. In the six hour battle that followed, it became apparent that the negro possessed a veritable arsenal in the cabin and had a plentiful supply of ammunition.

State police ineffectively threw tear and mustard gas bombs into the cabin. A rush call was sent out for state troopers from Richmond. Soon a posse of several hundred was gathered under cover near the cabin. Nevertheless, every attempt to rush the building was met by a withering fire from the negro and his sister.

Cabin Is Fired
As night fell, floodlights from a volunteer fire department engine lighted the building and surroundings. Finally it was decided to fire the cabin and flaming torches were thrown at it. The rear of the house eventually caught fire, the flames quickly spreading. Wailes and the sister were seen running toward the front of the house. She fell, shot dead by a state trooper's automatic rifle. Wailes staggered to the door and flung it open, flames licking at his back. State troopers' machine guns barked and he fell back into the flames. Both were cremated before the posse could reach their bodies.

Will Be 80 Guests
In all, there will be eighty guests in this precedent-breaking festival, which will include matrons, personnel and the inmates of the institution. The white and negro groups will each be accompanied by their own instructors and matrons, and will be entertained separately.

Friends of Mrs. Roosevelt have lent their private cars to convey the girls to and from the White House. "And why," Mrs. Roosevelt was asked, "are you doing all of this for delinquent girls?"

"Because," and the color swept into the first lady's cheeks and her eyes flashed with indignation as she answered: "Those girls are in there to be rehabilitated as far as possible, to enable them to attain to community living. They must be prepared to meet difficulties which had defeated them in the past. Therefore, it seems to me that complete segregation in gloomy surroundings is hardly the way to achieve this objective. And as all young people enjoy an occasional outing, I think these youngsters should have a little fun."

Conditions in this institution are so "barbarous" and "medieval" that Judge Fay Bentley of the juvenile court has refused to send any girls there for the past year. And senators Copeland (D) of New York, and King (D) of Utah, have been instrumental in having an appropriation of $100,000 included in legislation now in conference.

Rev. Bennett needs no introduction to us and we know we will learn much that will increase our respect for Rev. Bennett and our patriotism in our country.

PRESIDENT, HOPKINS AND TUGWELL CONFER ON RELIEF SPENDING

Congress In Stew
Meanwhile, back in Washington, members of both houses of congress were in somewhat of a stew about the whole matter of work-relief. The confusion arose from Mr. Roosevelt's statement at a press conference just before embarking on the Chesapeake Bay jaunt that PWA and resettlement administration would continue to function next fiscal year even though all of the $1,425,000,000 was appropriated to Hopkins' WPA.

Administration leaders in congress had been pushing the money bill through on the assumption neither PWA nor RA would get any of the new money. In the house they had successfully fought off efforts to earmark a portion for PWA—and certain house members had dropped an amendment barring the resettlement administration from participation on the basis of what they said were white house reassurances it would be unnecessary.

The president, however, finally had made it plain that he wanted the work-relief purse string given to Hopkins in such a way that the WPA boss could dole out money to Ickes' PWA and Tugwell's RA whenever the president and Hopkins decided it was needed. He said there was too much needless squabbling about who signed the check—but it was apparent he wanted Hopkins to do the signing, subject to his own approval.

4. Penalties for corporations unduly retaining income: modification of section 102 of existing law to eliminate from penalty clauses all corporations earning $15,000 or less statutory net income and to grant all other corporations exemption from the penalty clauses for retention of thirty percent of their statutory net income. The penalty clauses of existing law call for a tax of 25 percent on the first $100,000 of income unreasonably retained by corporations and thirty-five percent tax on all sums in excess of that amount.

Informal Party

In her home at 906 Wilmington avenue, Miss Sarah Sherbine entertained a group of her friends on Friday night.

Music and dancing occupied the evening hours, along with various other party games. At an appropriate hour a delicious luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her mother and sister, Mrs. Edgar Sherbine and Allene Sherbine.

W. B. Y. Club

Members of the W. B. Y. club met in the home of Zada and Grace Welling Wednesday evening. Games and election of a scribe formed a part of the program, with Eileen Crable being named. Refreshments were served by the hostess after a social period.

The next assembly will be held May 27, with Eileen Crable of Spring street.

Cooper Achieves Greater Success

"Mr. Deeds Goes To Town"
One Of Recognized Hits Of Year—Here Next Week

Ever since Frank Capra put a lot of delicious nonsense together in eight reels and called it "It Happened One Night," all Hollywood has been trying to repeat the formula. Mostly it has been a dismal effort, since there are few Capras, just as few scenarists as adroit as Robert Riskin and, besides that, delicious nonsense can't be ordered by the bale in carload lots.

It is only justice that the first film to match "It Happened One Night," should come from Mr. Capra and Mr. Riskin. They had in this case, the first-hand help of detailed Budington Kelland. Mr. Kelland wrote the original story. It was called "Mr. Deeds Goes To Town." Admittedly no alluring title, Columbia pictures none the less has allowed it to stand. Now the picture has already been named for the Academy award of 1936. Throughout this amazingly simple story Capra has strewn incidental details so winning and warm that overnight Gary Cooper achieves new stature as a star. However, this has become the accepted thing out in Hollywood insofar as the stars are concerned. Capra made Clark Gable a real actor, then Claudette Colbert, now Cooper. It is said that practically all of the leading stars request that they be loaned to Columbia Pictures Corp., with the understanding that Frank Capra directs them.

"Mr. Deeds Goes To Town" had an invitation preview in Hollywood, with the leading directors, producers and players present. The whole audience reacted quickly to the picture, laughing uproariously throughout its length. Merle Oberon, actress, said "It is greater than 'It Happened One Night' and the finest thing Gary Cooper has ever done." James Reid, Motion Picture Magazine, "It's a four A. That's the best this magazine can offer. I wish there were more."

The fans of New Castle will see the picture here all of next week, when it opens an engagement at the Regent Theatre, starting Monday.

DRIFT TO AND FROM FARMS

DURING the period from 1930 to 1935 the number of farms in the United States increased almost ten per cent, according to the Census Bureau. Much of the increase was due to city dwellers who became imbued with the back-to-the-farm spirit and forsook the congested areas. Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace calls them "industrial refugees," a term that aptly explains their reason for leaving the cities.

There are few city dwellers who at some time or other have not conjured up a picture of how delightful it would be to own a farm. Out in the country they could be independent, away from the rush and competition of the industrial centers. All that would be necessary would be to plow the ground, plant the crops and reap the harvest. In the winter they would take life easy. What a pleasant picture!

And how sad has been the experience and disillusionment of those unexperienced in agriculture who have tried it. Agriculture is a business, requiring the same amount of skill and knowledge that is necessary in any important industry. Many are discovering that, to their sorrow. The trek to the farm will soon be reversed and there will be a large number of sadder and wiser city dwellers who will return to the environments where they may best exercise their ability to make a living.

SELF ASSURANCE

Those who talk to themselves sometimes are suspected of being a little queer if not perhaps slightly unbalanced mentally. This is unfortunate. As a process of education boys and girls should be encouraged to talk to themselves and to say the right things.

A sheet of instructions issued by an eastern university to its baseball squad contains a lot of injunctions calculated to boost the batting average, and among them is this significant exhortation:

"Always have confidence in yourself when facing the pitcher. Say to yourself, 'I can hit him. I know I can hit him. He's a cinch for me.' This is an excellent way for everyone to 'go to bat' wherever the game of life is played. There is no surer way to fail than to expect failure. The biggest boost toward success is to expect success. And there is a lot of help and encouragement in telling one's self that what one is going up against is a cinch.

HEROIC FIGURE OF THE GREAT WAR

Allenby of Palestine would have been as appropriate a title as Kitchener of Khartoum or Napier of Magdala. For the British Field Marshal who has just died, after some striking successes on the Western front, undertook the expedition which freed the Holy Land from Turkish rule for the first time in nearly seven centuries.

Lord Allenby's strategy against the German-trained Turks was as much a demonstration of skill as of courage. He would march in one direction and then fall upon the unprepared enemy from another. He drove the Turks out of Egypt and cornered them in Palestine, between the Mediterranean and the Jordan, forcing them to surrender. Lord Allenby returned from the war to become High Commissioner of Egypt, a post in which his administrative gifts were conspicuous.

He was a less picturesque fighter than Lawrence of Arabia, who chose to call himself Aircraftman Shaw when his great exploit there was ended; but he was no less brave and resourceful. His achievement won him decorations from the Allies and from the United States. But to a man of his type the sense of duty well done was more than any honors bestowed upon him.

THE HOME AND YOUTH

With juvenile delinquency on the increase, and with moronic boys and girls possible candidates for the shoes of the gangsters who have been taken by the law's latest and most commendable drive, it is high time that every citizen make it his business to change the situation.

The responsibility is thrown back at last upon the home. The sad and affecting confessions of thousands of youths riding freights and boarding at hobo jungles contain an ever recurring note of friction between father and mother, or a complaint that a parent was cruel and unfeeling.

But it is not, after all, the poverty-stricken loveless home which breeds all the juvenile delinquency. In middle-class homes there is today a shocking lack of coordination between parents and children. It grows out of the almost total absorption of parents in business and social affairs, and the indifference they show as to the whereabouts of their teen-age sons and daughters between 8 p. m. and 1 a. m.

A vast number of youths in what we call good homes scarcely know if their parents have religious beliefs, ethical scruples, or moral principles as dear as life. The home has become so much of a hotel in these days that father and mother may never get across to their children any instruction in the vital realm of morals.

It is up to the parents to ask themselves which is more important, a little cultivation of their children, or some new friends made at lodge, or in a bridge game. If the fathers of America would begin to be the companions of their sons, even for an hour or so two or three times a week, both would receive a world of good from it.

Good intentions by parents are not enough. It has been proverbial since the days of Rome's greatness that the sincere and faithful practice of religion in the home is the key to national perpetuity.

We used to be dollar chasers. Now we seem content just to pursue a fad.

Wonder how much pride or satisfaction the constituents who sent Representative Zioncheck to Washington find in the contemplation of their work?

The cross roads postmaster, caught reading a post card, usually manages to laugh it off. But perhaps—as a paraphraser suggests—Senator Black hasn't the personality.

We're afraid Dr. Dafee is rather old-fashioned in his ideas about the training of the Dionnes. Up to now there isn't one of the youngsters who can do even the elementary steps of a tap dance.

The principal fight in Cleveland, says a political observer, will center around the platform. This is interesting in view of the fact that there is a century and a half of American history to prove that if there is one thing not worth fighting about it is a platform.

More cases of "sixty hours between arrest and life imprisonment" would discourage the crime wave.

By MARSHALL MASLIN

"IMPEDIMENTA"
I remember a word I used to come across in my Latin lessons 20 years ago. We found it in Caesar's Commentaries about the wars he fought in Gaul, and it was easy to translate.

The word was "impedimenta," and it meant "baggage." It meant food and repair shops or the luxuries of officers insisted on carrying with them. It meant all those things you throw away when you really go into battle, or when you are fleeing from the enemy that has beaten you.

Caesar was shrewd and tried to keep his "impedimenta" down to the lightest limit. But even Caesar carried too much "impedimenta" and regretted it sometimes. He won his battles, but he would have won them sooner and made quicker surprise marches on the enemy if his men had had less to carry with them on the march.

When you read Caesar and think about that sometimes you wonder if you, too, aren't carrying too many IMPEDIMENTA around with you. You call them ADVANTAGES, perhaps, and are proud of them. Or you call them CONVICTIONS and are willing to fight for them at the drop of a hat. But if you have too many of them they get in your way. Your "advantages" get between you and other people at times. You judge people harshly because they are not just like you and the people you know in your youth and you do not see the good things that are in them. You cut yourself away from people without their will.

Or your "convictions" turn into prejudices, ways of thinking that exist without visible means of support. You don't like some people, because you never HAVE liked such people. You don't do some things because you made up your mind long ago that they weren't the things to do. You are a snail with a heavy shell on your back, and you think you MUST wear a shell always. But a slug, as Samuel Butler pointed out long ago, is a snail WITHOUT a shell, and the slug—although very annoying to ladies with out that IMPEDIMENTA.

In the army we had frequent "inspections" and officers ordered us to throw away all our cluttering, hampering, heavy "souvenirs." We did throw them away, groaning and feeling very much abused. But we rid ourselves of a great deal of "impedimenta" in that way—and if we did it more often in peace time we might complain less about the heavy burdens we bear.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

HOW ABOUT IT!
"Far away fields are always greener," but speaking of "the horse and buggy age" has there come into the life of either young or old, a greater thrill than riding in Sam Chamber's or Billy Harlan's band wagon, or the great bobsleds, each drawn by four dashing horses?

I think no automobilist of today gets any greater thrill than was obtained by the riders in those sledges on a beautiful moonlight night when the ground was thoroughly covered with snow. It makes no difference whether or not he is driving a high-powered automobile at fast speed over great distances, he can never capture the thrill of a ten-mile ride over the snow to Darlington for an oyster supper.

Then, speaking more of the horse and buggy age, there is no one, young or old, who will not get a thrill out of the handsome span of horses and equipment used in the filming of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." No automobile of today, of any make whatsoever, can equal the splendor and caste displayed by the horse-drawn vehicles as being displayed in that film.

Most folks consider this old world a pretty big place, but if you tossed a cube one seven-thousandth of an inch in diameter into Lake Erie, it would occupy the same relative space in that great inland sea that our earth occupies in a universe terminating at the nearest star, Alpha Centauri, and extending a similar distance from our sun in all directions. Such a universe contains 15,625,000,000,000,000,000.

SECRET CONFERENCE

DEAR MISS MARKEL—I have been asked to be an usher at a wedding. Just what are my duties?

A. S.
Answer—You should arrive at the church about three-quarters of an hour before the time set for the ceremony, so that you may receive your instructions for seating the guests and get your bottomiere.

You should greet arriving guests, offering your arm to the women and seating them according to directions—the bride's family and friends on the left side (as you face the altar), the bridegroom's on the right.

If guests have no pew cards, you should ask if they prefer to sit on the bride's or the bridegroom's side. When the bride's mother has been seated (she should be the last person seated) and the processional is about to begin, go to the back of the church and take your place in line with the others in the wedding party. The ushers should head the processional.

After the recessional is over the ushers hurry back to escort to the church door the women who occupied the first pews—the bride's mother first, the bridegroom's mother next; then the other occupants of the first pew on each side. The other guests go out unassisted and the ushers hurry to the reception.

Each usher should take a bridesmaid in to the wedding breakfast and later escort her home.

Hoover Victory In Ohio.
Also Victor In California.
Weigh Chances Of Former President.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

HOW STRONG will former President Hoover be at the Republican national convention in Cleveland next month?

That question has been asked many times in Cleveland since the Ohio primaries. The Republican "Old Guard" won 47 of Ohio's 52 convention delegates in a fight with Senator William E. Borah.

The "Old Guard" was under the leadership of Walter F. Brown, of Toledo, who was Hoover's postmaster general. But Clarence J. Brown, also a power, who led the field among the candidates for delegate-at-large, is Col. Frank Knox's Ohio campaign manager. And Robert A. Taft, for whom the majority of delegates are pledged to vote for (on the first ballot) as "favorite son," is friendly to Gov. Alfred E. Landon; in fact, even has been mentioned as a running mate.

It must be recalled that the so-called Hoover slate won in California—although the delegation is counted as pro-Landon.

If Hoover is to have any say in the convention, it probably will be through Walter F. Brown, "boss" of the Ohio delegation, a crafty politician. He is assumed to be the former president's chief tactician.

The question is: "How far will Walter Brown go?" Cleveland, full of pre-convention politicians, believes that Brown is in an admirable trading position. With, however, approximately 400 delegates (out of a necessary 501) already indicated for Governor Landon, Brown will do his "trading" with the Landon forces.

According to the best information available in Cleveland, the Ohio delegation will split like this on the second ballot:

For Landon, 38; Borah, 5, and four or five apiece to Vandenberg and Knox.

SECRET CONFERENCE

Today's Yesterdays—May 16, 1801—William H. Seward was born. Twice fate robbed him of the presidency. When the Republican national convention met in Chicago on his 39th birthday, he was the most conspicuous candidate, and on the first ballot, he got the most votes, 173; to his nearest rival's 102. A darkhorse, one A. Lincoln, eventually won the balloting and the office.

For generations, Gloucestershire folk had been saying that if you caught cowpox from a cow you couldn't have smallpox, but the doctors pooh-poohed them until Dr. Jenner, country practitioner, investigated. Then they pooh-poohed Dr. Jenner. He stirred up a furore by using two children, being given his own infant, in vaccination experiments, and even medical men joined in the campaign for laws, against vaccination!

While England was still belittling

"How can it be true? He leads in the primary voting."

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY
Senator George F. Norris for years has urged a constitutional amendment providing a presidential primary—for a nation-wide primary, a free-for-all in all parties. Present primaries, in the states, are costly and lend themselves to boss domination. They are not really binding. They give an independent no chance. Only powerful organizations can go from state to state to fight it out.

Direct presidential primaries and direct presidential elections are certain to be coming issues. The people are feeling, at last, that they are too far removed from presidential selection.

TURNED DOWN
Republican leaders do not take kindly to a hint from the duPonts to have a "coalition ticket."

This small dispatch from Washington, Del., appearing in the Wall Street Journal, gave the hint:

"Governor Buck of Delaware, Republican, favors a national coalition G. O. P. ticket. His choice is Landon for president and Governor Ely (former governor of Massachusetts) or Lewis Douglas (former director of the budget), 'sound trustworthy members of the Democratic party' for vice president."

In the first place, the Republicans believe they have plenty of deserving Republicans; in the second place, they have begun to fear the blighting effect of the duPont millions; and, thirdly, the names smack of the American Liberty League, whose tactics have the effect of losing votes by the tens of thousands.

Governor Buck is a son-in-law of a duPont. The duPonts are "retiring" Senator Hastings and putting up Governor Buck in his stead. Perhaps they would like to see Governor Buck the vice presidential nominee—but Delaware is not a key state and means nothing in attracting votes.

ARRANGEMENTS GOOD

Writers have been saying unkind things of the housing and convention arrangements in Cleveland.

This writer, who has followed them closely, believes the arrangements have been well done.

No other convention has had such hippodromic or advance reservations and it is impossible to accommodate all the visitors. Fifty thousand persons cannot be put into 10,000 rooms—nor can 50,000 be put into a single convention hall, even a hall as admirably arranged as the one in Cleveland.

Maybe we can turn our future political convention, into expositions? Oddly enough, Cleveland is erecting an exposition on the lakefront adjoining the convention hall, and it will be opened following the Republican convention. Perhaps persons who cannot get into the convention hall will stay to visit the exposition.

Jenner's "theory" Germany made his birthday a holiday, in recognition of his achievement.

THE MOTHER
She never left the children all alone to get their tea.

At home to put the kettle on she always wished to be.

The time we took a holiday and went to see the Fair.

She talked about the children and kept wishing they were there.

There wasn't any pleasure worth the worrying, she said.

She never seemed contented till she'd tucked them all in bed.

As they were growing older she made this her rigid rule.

To be on hand to greet them when they all came home from school.

She never wanted pleasures that her family couldn't share.

She only wanted pretty things for those she loved to wear.

For her heart was with her children, and when came the time to roam.

If she couldn't take them with her, she would rather stay at home.

She liked to get their suppers just to know how they were fed.

She had the notion others wouldn't care what prayers they said.

And still serenely happy and as proud as proud can be.

Science tells us that liquor has a depressing effect. This is especially true of the foot on the accelerator.

Many Nationalities In Adult Classes

In the adult education classes which have been in progress during the past winter and spring months, a widespread of national origins is found, and the list of subjects taught shows an even wider spread. Provided by the Works Progress Administration the classes have had a dual purpose, to provide educational facilities for adults denied such facilities in their younger days and to provide work for instructors who through no fault of their own are unemployed.

The enrollment of the classes is heavy, 704 being listed. Of these 289 are married and 415 are single people. The average of last grades completed is the ninth, the average age of the students is 27, and the age range runs between 16 and 75.

Eighty per cent of the classes are native born, 11 per cent are naturalized citizens and 9 per cent are aliens. In the list of the nationalities of parents are found 29 different ones. Almost every part of the world is represented except Asia. Of the list 314 or 43 per cent are employed and 346 or 48 per cent are unemployed. Working on relief projects are 64 or 9 per cent of the total.

The subjects being taught number 40. Among them are the fundamentals of education, but there also are such subjects as engineering, law, music, psychology, several languages, citizenship, knitting, nursing, parent-education, social problems and many others.

The classes this year have been a success and while there will be some cessation during the warm months, they will probably be continued in the fall.

MISTAKES IN LEARNING

Yesterday I quoted from a paper of mine, read before the Ohio Academy of Science, in which I condemned stop-watch teaching on two counts: that it was inefficient and bad for the learner's mental health.

As you recall, I said there is no scientific evidence that a hurry atmosphere does promote good learning, and that on the contrary there are some published data available to indicate that emphasis on speed in learning is very inefficient, that it not only decreases accuracy but decreases speed also.

In that paper I referred to a research of mine published in School and Society in 1918, the first on the subject, and one by Sturt published three years later in the British Journal of Psychology. Both these investigations arrived at this conclusion: Emphasize speed in the learning process and you get neither speed nor accuracy. Emphasize accuracy and you get both speed and accuracy.

Also I reviewed some data from another published study of mine on "Persistence of Errors in Arithmetic," in which it was found that we can never be sure that an error once made, as 8 and 7 are 14, won't be made over and over again, even in the same way.

In the discussion by the psychologists assembled there seemed to be unanimous agreement with my conclusions. However, following the meeting, Prof. Francis N. Maxfield, clinical psychologist of Ohio State university, pointed out to me—that I believe to be true—that certain slow-moving and slow-responding individuals do seem to do better at mental work under pressure; but he added that for any average group of children in a classroom, frequent timed exercises are doubtless bad.

New Slant Given

Professor Horace B. English, also of Ohio State university, gave in the discussion a new slant—new, at least to me—to the application of the principle of "persistence of errors." Said he: "It is not only applicable to learning of number facts, spelling and the like, but to conduct also. We cannot afford to have the child practice in definite modes of behavior which we know to be anti-social behavior." (I am not sure I am quoting him correctly.)

Later Dr. English explained to me, if I recall correctly, that he had in mind the prevalent notion of certain "progressive" educators who assume that items of behavior clearly undesirable will eventually drop out in the child who is motivated "by large impelling objectives."

"Why," he added, "will some progressive teachers allow children at school to be positively discourteous to these teachers? When I asked a certain teacher this question she replied that she did not mind it and was willing to endure these little inconveniences rather than repress the child."

"But it is the child that I am concerned about," was the reply to that teacher by Professor English.

AROUND CITY HALL

Lieutenant Ray Showalter, in charge of the detectives bureau at city hall had a unique experience Friday. In fact it is believed to have been the first of its kind, not only in this section, but other parts of the country. Showalter fingerprinted a young man with six fingers. His name is Fred Struth and he resides at MacDonald, O. His right hand possessed four fingers and two thumbs. The department of justice cards on which all fingerprints are registered had no place for a sixth finger, but Showalter managed to print all of the fingers on one blank. The young man had been summoned here by another and was not in police custody. While here he had his fingerprints taken.

Only one bullet is required by the city dog catcher to send a canine into oblivion. In fact, the dog catcher asserted at police headquarters that the manner in which he executes dogs causes no pain. "I fire a bullet behind their left front leg. It strikes the heart. The dogs do not bark, howl or kick." Daily the officer is summoned to various parts of the city. Some people mail him cards. Some are signed "Taxpayer," "Interested Citizen" and "Annoyed." However, the dog catcher does not act without an investigation when he receives anonymous communications. "Tag," the "confidence dog," which people alleged enticed other canines from yards and porches, no longer is on the job. He is in retirement. "I do not take 'Tag' with me," the dog catcher said. "I do not have much money, but I wouldn't sell that dog for $1,500," he declared.

During the current week three accidents in which motorcycles were concerned occurred in this city. One occurred in East Washington street, another in North Jefferson street, and a third crash at Hemlock and State streets.

Since the posting of a bulletin banning solicitors from the city building four attempts have been made to dispose of tickets, booklet advertising and other articles to city officials.

Report was received that a parking sign in North Mercer street hung so low it bumped against the head of several people walking on the east side of the street at the bank building.

Under the ordinance banning automobiles between 12 midnight and 6 a. m. when the street sweeper operates, automobiles can be towed to garages if they are locked.

John Stump Chosen As Debate Captain

Local Minister's Son Named To Head Muhlenberg Forensic Council

John P. Stump, Muhlenberg college student and son of the Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Stump of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, was named honorary captain of Muhlenberg's Forensic Council for 1936-37 when it organized recently at Allentown, Pa. Stump has been captain of the school's varsity debating team this term.

In the majority of Stump's 13 debates this year the subject was: "Resolved: That congress should have power by a two-thirds vote to override decisions of the supreme court declaring acts of congress unconstitutional." His side won six of the debates and tied one. In several no decision was given. One was lost.

As Judge Howard W. Hughes ordered an all-day session for today, it appeared Dreameer would probably have the opportunity to take the stand in his own defense by Monday.

The most damning evidence thus far introduced against Dreameer, a husky built 39-year-old man, is a six-page typewritten statement, a confession commonwealth witnesses testified he signed without threat or force. In the statement, Dreameer was quoted as admitted striking the girl with a brick when she resisted his advances and then attacking her. Some of the more sordid parts were ordered withheld by Judge Hughes although the courtroom was cleared of all persons under 16.

Also among the commonwealth exhibits were four sketches showing where the attack occurred which Dreameer himself was alleged to have drawn and a button that was allegedly torn from his coat by the struggling high school girl.

Sergeant William Hanna, of the Pennsylvania state police, testified Dreameer sobbed like a child as he drew the sketches.

In China are killed by famine, plague, floods; China pays little attention, the outside world none at all.

But rumors spread in Chungking, in Szechwan Province, that assassins are circulating in the crowded streets, "stabbing people with poisoned needles, many already dead." Hysteria seizes that region of Western China.

Death by poisoned needle is new, and new things shock the mind.

LONDON SENDS news of the death, at 75, of Lord Allenby, who conquered Palestine in the big war, took it from the Turks, and England tried to restore it to its rightful owners, the Jewish people. Unfortunately, the restoration is not yet a complete success.

THE JEWISH Telegraph Agency sends word that many Jews are "evacuated" from the old city of Jerusalem by British police, transferring the Jews for their protection, to a safer locality.

"Many Jews closed their doors in Jaffa Street" 140 Jews evacuated from the section over night—"British policeman killed an Arab at the Jaffa gate."

Arabs outnumber Jews in Palestine more than two to one, and England, holding the Palestine mandate, has not finished her task there.

THE PHILIPPINES Herald year book presents the "labor saving machinery problem" in two pictures: first, a long row of men and women planting stalks of rice, by hand, one at a time; second, a great American machine, built to thresh the harvested rice. It ties the straw in bundles, puts the rice in bags, weighs it, loads it on trucks.

A man planting rice stalks, bending over for twelve hours a day, earns perhaps two cents an hour.

THE MECHANIC operating the big machine works eight hours, makes a dollar and a half an hour, his helpers in proportion. The husband and wife must take their choice.

Some do not want to go back to planting hills of corn, by hand, one at a time, or cutting hay with a scythe, or by hand with a knife, as they still do in the Island of Java.

It need not be a complicated problem, at least for this country. Let the people "buy more, earn more, own more, spend more, consume more" to offset labor-saving machinery, and make hours of labor shorter, increase leisure.

The difficulty would be to use the increased leisure profitably. That would come, slowly.

DR. ECKENER, flying 3,900 miles in his dirigible Hindenburg, from Lakehurst, New Jersey, to Frankfurt, Germany, in 49 hours, is ignored by the Nazi government on his arrival, the speech of congratulation addressed to Eckener's assistant, Commander Lehmann.

DR. ECKENER is the world's greatest dirigible expert, but by no means the greatest admirer of Nazism, which explains matters.

All this would be good news for this country if Dr. Eckener would settle here, with the world's only adequate supply of safe helium gas at his disposal, and show us how to make that monopoly useful.

WITHIN A week the French government has lost nearly two hundred million dollars' worth of gold; that worries France almost as much as Hitler's military advance to the edge of the Rhine.

Siam owns a great treasure, a real tooth from the mouth of Prince Guatama, who founded the Buddhist religion. Once a year that tooth goes for a ride in a golden howdah on the back of an elephant, while everybody bows to the ground. Siam would call it a great disaster if that tooth should disappear, although it seems queer to us.

FRANCE LOSES a big lump of gold that is a great disaster, although nobody knows WHY. It does not diminish French wealth, intelligence, industry or power.

The fact is that nobody knows anything about money; this country, perhaps, less than any other.

We put the price of gold up to thirty-five dollars an ounce, bury our gold supply in a deep hole, tell Americans they can't have any, and then yell "inflation" when it is proposed to print three billion dollars to help farmers with their mortgages.

Three League Games Carded For Sunday

Trio Of Baseball Games To Be Played At Mahoning, Bessemer And West Pittsburg; Fans Continue To Talk Of Anyder's No Run, No Hit Feat; Strong Willow-Wielders Loom; League Officials To Meet Monday To Decide Important Problems.

Fans are expected to attend the three games in the Lawrence County Baseball league Sunday in large numbers and no doubt the six teams will show better form than what many fans believe possible due to the fact the season got under way only a few days ago. In the games already played fans have seen some good hitting, spectacular fielding and also a no run, no hit hurling feat.

The schedule for tomorrow follows: Hillsville at Bessemer, A. S. & T. P. at Mahoning, Wampum at West Pittsburg. At this writing Wampum is leading the league having copped both tilts and indications are, according to league officials that the Wampumites may prove the dark horse aggregation of the first half.

Some Going Well

One of the players who was placed right in the hitting column is Benson who bats fifth for Bessemer. His safe wallop have driven in six of the nine runs Bessemer has chalked up in circuit tilts. Another chap who has shown strength with the willow is center-fielder Jones of the Tin Mills. He came through in his first game with two hits and Marshall and Stroph of Hillsville also have shown plenty. In fact Stroph dropped the ball so hard he drove in three runs ahead of him and Koster is the other chap who hit for four bases while fans are yet talking of Snyder's no run, no hit game.

One of the best looking catchers in the circuit, league reports declare, is Hughes of West Pittsburg. In the game with West Pittsburg he handled 10 outputs without error.

Managers To Meet

While the trio of games Sunday will attract fans the Lawrence County League meeting, carded for 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Sport Goods store, will bring all the managers to the meeting.

At the meeting a poll of the pilots will be taken and any who is absent will be fined as some important decisions will be made. They concern new playing plans, umpires and baseball reports.

Hillsville has been having some difficulty getting a Sunday ground

ELLWOOD CITY, May 16.—Once again the annual spring festival held by members of the North Sewickley township grange at their hall on the Ellwood-New Brighton road was a complete success with approximately 250 attending the events of both Thursday and Friday evenings.

The event opened with the serving of a delicious dinner on Thursday evening under the competent supervision of Mrs. Eugene Wise, Mrs. Edward Brelock and Mrs. Irma Gillespie. The dinner was followed by a moving picture display. Miss Mary Vogle and Miss David Lawrence and Beaver county home extension representatives, served as judges of the gorgeous quilt displays. The two oldest quilts, one 150 years and one 112 years, were displayed by Mrs. G. N. Hazen and the third oldest, 110 years, was entered by Mrs. Sarah Caven.

Prizes for the best quilted displays went to Mrs. Fred DiVinyne, Mrs. David Douglas, Jr., and Mrs. Sarah Swick; harmony of colors, Mrs. Genevieve Goehring, Mrs. Fred DiVinyne and Mrs. Sarah Swick; and originality, Mrs. Genevieve Goehring and Mrs. G. N. Hazen.

Nurses' Benefit Dance On May 22

Jameson - Shenango Alumni Nurses Association Plans Dance And Card Party

Nurses are going to forget all about temperatures and diet tables on Friday night, May 22, when the Jameson-Shenango Alumni Nurses association will hold a dance in the ballroom of the Castleton hotel. With dance will be a card party for those who do not care to swing it. Committees of nurses have been busy for several weeks arranging plans for the dance and the program committee promises something sweet and hot. Door prizes will be given and table prizes will be awarded to the card players. A floor show that has what it takes will entertain during the dance intermission and the band procured for the dance has that certain something.

The dance is not only for the purpose of entertainment but the nurses plan to use the proceeds for a worthy cause. Tickets are on sale at McKinley and Frantz drug store, the Jameson Memorial hospital and the Peoples Drug store. The price is $1.50 per couple.

Every now and then the Nurses association tosses a dance and the evening is always a high mark in diversion. This one is going to be even better according to the "women in white" and the ballroom of the Castleton is going to be taxed with the crowd.

Buying tickets for the dance is a guarantee of a good time but more than that it is a lift to a good cause. When a nurse asks you to buy a ticket don't say no. Remember some of things nurses have done for you in the past and what they may have to do in the future.

Y. P. Society Has Wiener Roast

At a late hour the group assembled around a glowing bonfire and partook of an appetizing wiener and marshmallow roast.

Much credit for the successful affair is due the social committee composed of Edith Worcester, Joseph Van Gorder and Lewis Foy and to William Kirk and Paul Mehler.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Small Tales: Pierre is a bellhop on the Normandie. He is 22. From childhood it has been his life's ambition to see New York, to go to the theater and view Times Square. He has made six trips to New York and has never seen anything but the skyline from the harbor and the pier.

in the rocker by the window, but sometimes she's kept up all night. She never has learned to get her sleep properly in the daytime. She hates nursing—Heavens! how she hates it!

But a girl must eat. When, at eighteen, she entered training, she thought the career would be glamorous and rewarding. She had read about Florence Nightingale and her head was full of dreams of service to mankind. Now she only looks forward to the day when she can escape.

The day is not far off. She is engaged to a young doctor at another hospital. They will be married in September. She feels sorry for the other nurses who must toil on in the traces. Twelve hours a day!

Of course, Ruth's husband is poor and won't be able to afford a nurse for his office for the first five or six years, probably. Ruth will take that job. And she'll do the housework, too, in order to help save. He's also writing a book, a study of blood corpuscles, which she will type for him and do research on in her spare hours.

She's jubilant. What a relief it'll be to get away from the old grind!

Before persons may receive permits to carry revolvers at the city police station they first must be interviewed by Police Chief Criswell. Not many permits are issued by the chief.

"The fastest-growing population in the United States is the Indian population," says Indian Commissioner John Collier.

On Court House Hill

Marriage licenses issued under the new law must be used within sixty days, according to Prothonotary John M. Edgar. There have been several instances where, for some reason or other, couples have deferred getting married until the sixty days expired. In cases of this kind it is necessary for new applications to be filed. Usually the marriage takes place soon after the license is issued.

Payments on farm loans made through the Federal agencies are being well kept up in Lawrence county, according to Attorney W. W. Stevenson. Quite a number of applications for loans have been made this spring but in a majority of the cases the security offered has not been considered sufficient. Some loans, however, are being put through.

Two perennial bills are back in the legislative hoppers for consideration during the emergency session. They are bills to legalize lotteries, and providing for billboard taxes. Back in 1931, the billboard levy proposal made its first appearance, and it has been introduced at practically every session since that time. The measure would place all billboards in the commonwealth under state regulation, providing for an annual license and square foot tax. The present measure calls for a $100 annual license.

Elimination of the expense of keeping patients at Torrance state hospital is being planned by the county commissioners and county controllers. The plan would be to have patients re-examined to ascertain whether or not they have any criminal tendencies. If the examinations demonstrate that they have not, they could be sent to homes for indigents, where the expenses are not as heavy as they are at Torrance. The commonwealth collects $5 a week from the county for each inmate of the hospital. At a home for indigents they could be kept for $3 per week. It is believed that Lawrence county has a number of patients at Torrance who could be changed to other places.

Representative William J. Eroe, who has been attending the special session of the legislature and is home for the week end, says that he believes the proposed law relating to the expense of keeping patients at Torrance will be passed. He finds that there is a strong sentiment in favor of the bill.

In every county and city throughout the state the delinquent tax situation has become a major problem. There are millions of dollars on the books, with accumulated interest and penalties so heavy that property owners have become so discouraged that they are on the point of giving up.

Passage of the bill, Mr. Eroe thinks, would give them courage to carry on. In Lawrence county there are thousands of delinquent tax claims, some of them dating as far back as 1929. If the interest and penalties are rebated, much of this money is likely to be collected.

It is to the advantage even, of property owners who have been fortunate enough to be able to pay their taxes, for the reason that if the delinquent taxes are not collected, additional levies will have to be made on persons who have been able to pay.

Register of Graves, Thomas Edmund, has been making a special effort to have all ex-soldiers register their discharge papers at the register and recorder's office. Most soldiers only have to register one discharge paper, but the registration of eleven discharge papers has just been completed for the late Fred W. Apple, of this county. The first discharge paper registered for Mr. Apple, showed that he had enlisted on June 5th, 1901, in the 84th company coast artillery. At the expiration of his enlistment he re-enlisted, until he had been sworn into the service eleven times. He served in the A. E. F. in France during the world war from July 15th, 1918 to February 27th, 1919. He returned a staff sergeant in the observation service. In all he was 30 years in the service of the United States army.

KELVINATOR THE OLDEST NAME IN THE INDUSTRY

The fact that Kelvinator is the oldest refrigerator company—with 21 years of refrigerator building experience back of it means two things:

First, that you are buying the product of a reliable company. Second, that you are buying a refrigerator which is the result of years of research development and constant improvement—a refrigerator which represents the utmost in quality, beauty, efficiency, convenience and economy. In every single year of Kelvinators growth more Kelvinators were sold than during the preceding year. This record—even in the worst of the depression years justifies Kelvinators claims that in the 1936 product it has reached the utmost in value.

You Get a Five-Year Protection Plan

At the same time Kelvinator costs no more than an ordinary refrigerator. Come in and see the new Kelvinators. Find out how easily you can buy one. We can actually prove that it will pay for itself.
